Editorial

In our cover story, historian and art critic Barbara Emerson discusses surrealism and one of its greatest exponents, René Magritte. A major exhibition of his works is showing at the Royal Belgian Museums of Fine Arts in Brussels until June 28. Don't miss it.

We also look at the challenges of relocating to a new country, dine out, drive two avant garde machines from the world's oldest car manufacturer and visit an unusual museum in Genval. And cinema buff Connie de Castro gives her views on two newly released films and their players.
