

íreland

is moving to Suters
in Slough

from Thursday April 9th to Saturday April 25th

We've imported a little of the Emerald Isle for a couple of weeks of becoming Irish. Like Waterford Crystal, Colorcast kitchenware, and Arklow pottery. Like Pat Crowley hand-knit dresses and trouser suits. Like Maureen Evans hand-crochet scarves and dresses. Like Padmore & Barnes brogues for the great outdoors and Woodington Drogheda trendy wet-look shoes for disco dating. Mens' hats from O'Gorman and suits from Kilmaine. Linens from Liddell. Fabrics and linens from Moygashel. And gifts galore.

Fionnuala O'Sullivan will be singing and playing her harp in our Slough restaurant on Thursday, April 9th, Friday, April 10th, and Thursday, April 16th, from 11.30 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. And you can wash down the gorgeous food with a glass of draught Guinness or a Jamesons Whiskey while you're listening to her.

And if this makes you yearn for Dublin, Cork or faraway places, the Aer Lingus stewardess will be delighted to tell you about the best flights to Ireland. But get a two-way ticket. Because we want you back.
